We Price Match. Simulating Knowledge Dynamics in Innovation Networks. The question of how technology impacts economic, political, military and cultural developments has been a topic of great debate in the social sciences and to speak about technology as a driving factor thus raises the spectre of technological determinism Levy, ; Paarlberg, Yet while technology is undoubtedly a main driver in the development of ISS, it is by no means a determining one: first, because technology is itself influenced by the other driving forces; and second, because there are human agents civilian and military, commercial and public who make decisions about which technology to develop. The individual clay layers are separated in Sustainable Communities and the Challenge of Environmental Justice continuous polymer matrix by an average distance that depends on clay loading.
